Totals	8,473	8,029,083	8,037,556

The work of the Commission has been a real economic value. There are 12,365 miles of running streams in Kentucky, which under present conditions produce considerably over one million dollars worth of food fish each year, when figured at 10 cents per pound, which could easily be doubled if the laws of the state be enforced.

In 1912 the game wardens captured and destroyed 1,088 hoop and wing nets, 67 seines and traps, and tore out 32 dams and fall traps. It is estimated that one hoop net will take 1,000 pounds of fish a year, so the 1,088 nets which were taken from less than 500 miles of streams represented 1,088,000 pounds of fish a year.

The United States Government, through its Fisheries Department, have facilities for distributing fish to the various states, but they have refused to plant fish in territory that is not protected, saying it was useless to liberate fish in waters not protected. So those states which had warden service and protected their streams got the bulk of the public distribution. But Kentucky is coming into her own, as shown by the Government reports:

In 1912 there was liberated in Kentucky 2,453,570 live fish.

In 1913 there was liberated in Kentucky 1,460,497 live fish.

In 1914 there was liberated in Kentucky 12,427,270 live fish.

In 1915 there was liberated in Kentucky 8,702,916 live fish.

The State Commission distributed in 1914, 8,473 live fish.

In 1915 (this spring) 8,029,083 live fish.

Total number of live fish distributed in Kentucky in 4 years was 31,781,809.

He Could Hardly Wear His Clothes

Alvis Sowers, Ade, Ind., endured terrible pains in his back and through his kidneys for eight years before he finally used Foley Kidney Pills. He says: "I would blast up at times so that I could hardly wear my clothes. Secretions were scant and very red. Foley Kidney Pills were recommended to me, and the first box removed the pain and after taking only three boxes the bleeding was all gone and has never bothered me since."

"Just about everybody who has used Foley Kidney Pills is anxious to recommend them. From every state in the Union come letters praising Foley Kidney Pills, because they so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that by their vigorous, healthy action all the ill results of sore, weak, ailing kidneys and bladder action are lost in a return of health and vigor. SOLD EVERY WHERE

Very Long Lived
By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

"Mirandy," said her aunt, Miss Quackenbos, "I don't see any reason why you and Dan Perkins shouldn't be married at once instead of waiting for me to get out of the way and—leave you what I got. I tell you what I'll do. I'm an old woman and not likely to live the year out. Dr. Baldwin says there isn't a sound organ in my shriveled old body. If you and Dan are certain you're going to get my property you'll feel more like getting married than if you're not. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

"I'll leave you property worth $10,000 on condition that you take care of me for the few months I have to live. You bind yourselves to give me $500 a year. The money is invested at that, so you'll not be a cent, and when I'm buried, you'll have the whole thing."

Dan had a salary of $1,200 a year, but with nothing laid up he had declined to marry Mirandy, who had nothing, until he should make some accumulation. This offer of the aunt gave him courage, and the pair, having taken over the property and signed a bond to pay Mrs. Quackenbos $500 a year so long as she lived, were married. A part of the estate was the dwelling in which the old woman lived. Being too large for her, she moved out to spend the rest of her days with a sister, and the bridal couple moved in.

Now, this was an excellent arrangement. It gave the young couple a confidence they would not otherwise have felt. But they were prevented from making any sort of property until it was unencumbered by the annuity. Dan was disposed to refrain from encroaching upon the estate, but Mirandy needed this and needed that, and when her husband objected she would say to her aunt, "You're getting worse every day and surely couldn't live the month out. Then Dan would yield, and the desired articles would be bought."

But the old lady didn't die. After lying supposedly at the point of death for a long time, she suddenly got out of bed and seemed more chipper than ever. Indeed, she announced that she was disinclined to mope and was going to start a chicken farm. This she did in a small way, and the interest she took in it improved her health amazingly.

Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. Perkins were having a hard time to get on. The Quackenbos property gave them no income and had been an incubator to spend money that did not come in, as had been expected. Children came to them, and it seemed the more children and the older and more experienced they grew the more vigorous the old lady became. Of course they could not object to her remaining alive, but she spoke to them on the subject thus:

"Reckon you two think I'm going to live forever. It ain't my fault. I don't want to hang on any longer. I'm ready to go any time. After all, it won't do any harm. You're economizin' at a time when you ought to economize, and you'll reap the benefit of it all after I'm gone."

Then the couple would look at each other and sigh, knowing that their debts had already nearly eaten up the whole expected property.

The old lady hung on till the Perkins' debt exactly balanced the $10,000 they had taken in exchange for the annuity. Then she died. They paid the funeral expenses—$200—which left them in debt by that amount.

Considering how unfortunate they had been in the old lady's living so long, they behaved very well. Indeed, they did not blame her. They blamed themselves for having drawn upon the property before they possessed it. They not only refrained from accusing Miss Quackenbos from designedly drawing them into a trap, but spoke kindly of her both in the domestic circle and to others.

Having buried the old lady, they put the property they had taken from her in the market to sell to pay their debts. Then one day they went to her quarters to remove to their house the few belongings she had left. Among these articles they brought away a tin box. It was locked, and they did not find the key, but since there seemed to be something in it Dan tried it open. Within they found a bundle of papers and pass books. Mirandy opened one of the books and found that it showed a credit at a savings bank of $937.56. Then she opened another, and it showed a credit of $2,742.18. A third more than doubled these two together.

Dan folded a document, which proved to be a deed to a dwelling and another to a business block. All this property was in Miss Quackenbos' name. The Perkins couple began to open their eyes. The old lady had evidently possessed more property than she had conveyed to them. But who had inherited what these vouchers stood for?

They began to empty the box in a search for a will. Pass books, deeds, certificates of stock and bonds were picked out and strewn the floor. Then Mirandy, running over the indentments on a bundle of papers, exclaimed: "Here it is. Last will and testament!"

Unfolding the paper with trembling hands, she cried:

"O my beloved niece, Mirandy Quackenbos Perkins."

Daddy's Bedtime

Story

How the Giraffe Got
His Collar.

"I WILL tell you kiddies another story in blank verse tonight," said daddy, at which Jack and Evelyn were much delighted. So daddy began:

"My story is pleasing, if not true. It's about a giraffe that lived in a zoo.

"This giraffe was striped and lank and tall, overtopping the animals all.

"That animal stood and swallowed hay in his pen at the zoo all the live long day.

"And the people passed, kids, women and men, and watched the giraffe in his roomy pen.

"And they said: 'What a wonderful, long necked creature! No wonder he's such a popular feature!'

"And the people thought it was a popular treat to stand and watch the giraffe eat.

"For he ate all night and he ate all day; down his long neck went loads of hay.

"And they said: 'I never since I was born saw a neck like that! Why, he looks forlorn!'

"Now the poor giraffe is a patient brute, but that kind of comment didn't suit.

"His appetite sort of fell away, and he didn't eat his stint of hay.

"And he said to himself: 'I'd give a dollar if I could somehow get a collar to hide my neck from the jeering crowd and stop their sneering comments loud!'

"No sooner said than a cry of 'Fire!' brought the firemen brave who never tire.

"The blaze was in the monkey house, and it was soon put out with a snuffen douse.

"Then some one looked toward the tall giraffe and burst out into a roaring laugh.

"A great big length of hose had dropped by the giraffe's pen, and he had topped.

"His head down there as quick as a wink, and next—well, children, what do you think?

"Well, just as sure as a silver dollar, he'd put on that hose for a rubber collar!

"But instead of laughing at him no more the people looked and began to roar."

FOR BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, COUGHS AND COLDS

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonfuls for 50 cents.

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair a manner as the below named drug-gists are selling Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectant, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction could possibly arise from anyone. These druggists say—"Buy a bottle of this remedy and try it for Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Severe Cough, Croup or any Bronchial Affection, and we will return your money, just the same as we do with Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it does not give satisfaction, or if not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints." Why not take advantage of this guarantee and try this medicine and get your money back, rather than buying another purely on the exaggerated claims of its manufacturer or on the strength of testimonials from others and run the chance of getting something worthless and also wasting your money?

In buying this remedy, besides securing an absolute guarantee of its efficiency from these druggists, you also get about eight times as much medicine as you would in buying most any of the old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, which average from 20 to 32 teaspoonfuls, because 50c worth makes a whole pint (128 teaspoonfuls) when mixed at home with simply one pint of sugar and one-half pint of water. This remedy positively does not contain chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. You will be the sole judge, and under this positive guarantee absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy. Druggists everywhere are authorized to sell it under the same guarantee as Schiffmann's famous Asthmador of "Money Back" if not perfectly satisfactory. R. J. Schiffmann, Proprietor, Saint Paul, Minn. Internal throat and chest troubles produce inflammation, irritation, swelling or soreness and unless checked at once, are likely to lead to serious trouble.

Short History of Governor

Augustus Owsley Stanley was born in Shelbyville, Shelby county, May 21, 1867, and consequently is in his forty-ninth year. His father, Rev. Wm. Stanley, 83 years old, is a retired Christian minister. His mother, who was Miss Amanda Owsley, is 70.

He married Miss Sue Souper, of Henderson, in April, 1903, and they are the parents of three boys, A. O. Stanley, Jr., 11; William Souper Stanley, 7; and Marion Shelby Stanley, 4.

Because Mr. Stanley's father was a minister, subject to removal from place place as ministers are the newly-elected Governor obtained his early education by piece meal. In his teens, he entered State University, at Lexington, and later entered Centre College, Danville, being graduated from that institution in 1889.

Educated for the law, Mr. Stanley began the practice of his profession in 1894, receiving his license in that year. He first hung out his shingle at Flemingsburg, Fleming county, and later went to Henderson, beginning practice of law there March 10, 1898. He later formed a law partnership with Judge John L. Dorsey, of Henderson.

Mr. Stanley was a presidential elector in 1900, and two years later was elected to Congress for the first time from the Second Kentucky district, composed of the counties of Christian, Daviess, Hancock, Hopkins, McLean, Union and Webster. He served that district in Congress for six consecutive terms, declining to stand for re-election in 1914, making the race for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in August of that year. He was defeated by J. C. W. Beckham, and a short while later began his race for the Democratic nomination for Governor, defeating H. V. McChesney, his nearest opponent, by 37,863 votes. He defeated Edwin P. Morrow, 417 votes for Governor, and will be sworn in at high noon, December 7.

GIVE PEOPLE GREATER POWER

The people of Kentucky are interested, deeply interested, in education, as is shown by the advance made in the last ten years. The people want this development and advancement to be of a strong and lasting type, but this can not be accomplished either rapidly or consistently so long as the school system remains in politics. Every good citizen and parent in the state wants the management of their child's educational advantages divorced from politics.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction is a constitutional officer and must be elected at a regular election of state officers, and he can not succeed himself. To make this a little plainer, it might be well to state that the name Superintendent of Public Instruction is one of the many names on the ballot, and interest in the election is centered, not on him, but upon the head of the ticket. Frequently a state ticket is elected on a big public issue, absolutely foreign to school matters, and the result is the Superintendent of Public Instruction goes into office, not as a school man, but as part of a successful party ticket.

No business could be carried on with thorough success if the general manager knew that at the end of four years he must give up his position to a new and untried man, no matter what progress he was making. This is exactly what the state is now doing with its important business, the business of manufacturing strong citizens out of the raw material of child-life.

It is proposed to amend the Constitution of the state by striking from Sections 91, 93 and 95 of the Constitution the words "Superintendent of the Public Instruction."

The objects to be accomplished by this amendment are to enable the people of this state to take the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction out of politics and to continue in office for a longer period than four years any Superintendent whose conduct of the office is highly efficient.

Under the operation of the Constitution, which compels the election of Superintendent of Public Instruction for a term of four years, and which makes this officer ineligible to succeed himself, the people are prevented from eliminating the office from politics and prohibited from retaining in office an efficient officer.

The public, in urging this change, should bear in mind the fact that even with the quickest action possible under the law this amendment would not be effective until the candidate elected next August will have served his full term to the end of four years, and his feeling need be developed.

Prominent Minister Dead

Rev. Thomas J. Stevenson, for many years prominent in the Baptist church and educational activities in Kentucky and the South, died at his home in Georgetown last week suddenly of acute indigestion at the age of 77 years. Besides his wife, who was Miss Anna Macklin, of Franklin county, to whom he was married in 1872, he is survived by a son, Judge John Macklin Stevenson, of Winchester, and a daughter, Miss Mary Emma Stevenson, of Georgetown. Mr. Stevenson was born in Fayette county. At the age of eighteen he was graduated from Georgetown College and was Professor of Greek and Hebrew in the college. Later he taught in the female seminary under the direction of Dr. J. J. Rucker and still later at the female college at Shelbyville, of which Dr. J. W. Goodman, father of his first wife, Miss Hattie Goodman, was president.

In 1890 he became pastor of the First Baptist church of Georgetown, and remained in that charge for six years. He later held pastorates at Stanford, Covington, Winchester and Frankfort, and for the past twenty-one years had been pastor of the Great Crossings church in Scott county.

He was the father of Judge J. M. Stevenson, of Winchester, who is well and favorably known in this city.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Richmond Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pains in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills is a good remedy to try. No need to experiment. It has acted effectively in many cases in Richmond. Follow the advice of a Richmond citizen.

Mrs. Edwards, 308 Edwards street, Richmond, says: "I think that Doan's Kidney Pills are a good kidney medicine and one that should be in every home. I suffered intensely from weak kidneys and backaches. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Middleton drug store, and they made me feel fine."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Edwards had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 1t

Proper Gifts For Little Girls.

Some mothers have no idea how much a child lives in an imaginary doll land and how much effect her life among her dolls has upon her character. The mother instinct alone is worth cultivating in a girl. But how can it ever be developed with an impossible, false doll dressed like a grownup in clothes that won't come off, won't wash and have no duplicates? Why, the mere desire to give a child something which will absorb and amuse her should teach the average mother that the little girl should be given five domestic interests of her own.

War Upon Pain.

Pain is a visitor to every home and comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Moslin H. Subler, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with my feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn my head. Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new."

STOMACH MISERY QUICKLY VANISHES

Your money back if you want it is the way in which B. L. Middleton, the popular druggist, is selling Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy.

This is an unusual plan, but Mi-o-na has so much merit and is almost invariably successful in relieving all forms of indigestion that he runs but little risk in selling under a guarantee of this kind.

Do not be miserable or make your friends miserable with your dyspepsia. Mi-o-na will help you. If it doesn't, tell B. L. Middleton that you want your money back and he will cheerfully refund it.

A change for the better will be seen from the first few doses of Mi-o-na and its continued use will soon start you on the road to perfect digestion and enjoyment of food.

Mi-o-na has been so uniformly successful that every box is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. What fairer proposition could be made?

B. L. Middleton gives his personal guarantee of "money back if you want it" with every box of Mi-o-na that he sells. A guarantee like this speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

Good Designs For Homemade Accessories That Are Acceptable.

These suggestions will help those who like to do hand embroidery. They may be developed in white or colored fine linens and fluffs or in fine scrims with colored silk embroidery. Scrims of clever fingers can adapt them as finishes for baby coats, for sun-schling girls' cuffs and collar sets of dark blue, brown or green linen embroidered with white make attractive finishes for one piece frocks.

THE pointed front of this surplice closing bodice gives excellent lines to the stout figure. The gown is made of finest quality faille silk. The upper part of the bodice and vest are of self color georgette crepe. The waist is beautifully embroidered back and front with very fine silk rat tail braid. The back of the waist is trimmed to match the front. The skirt is especially full through the hips. The flare tunic is finished at the bottom with two rows of cording. If this gown is made up in all black it is an excellent style for mourning wear. It is also shown in navy and blackberry. The entire waist is lined with heavy china silk.

The outdoor girl first brought the light of fashion's favor to the scarf. She introduced it in her outdoor costumes, showed the fashionable world just how pretty and practical it could be, and with this auspicious introduction it has been assured success. Now that cold weather is here it is no longer used as a pretty bit of decoration, but as a serviceable part of midday's wardrobe. Scarfs are of all kinds and colors. We have the silk scarf in vivid green, the snowy white one in Angora, a few in black satin and still others in velvet. But the most popular and the prettiest variety is the one made of Angora, either in pure white or in some vivid coloring. The scarf is economical because it cleans well; also it is warm, and because of these two characteristics it is destined to be immensely popular.

In the fashions of the present the alliance of the practical and the picturesque is quite a salient feature. A proof of this is shown in the number of pockets with which the latest modes are furnished. Both coats and frocks have a good supply of quite capacious pockets, and as often as not these are not only visible, but ornamental, adjuncts of the designer's scheme. Most skirts have a pocket at either side, now. Sometimes these are outlined with silk braid, fastened with a button and finished with a tassel, which droops from the lower end of it. The tendency is to indicate and not to conceal the presence of the pocket and make it do double duty in being ornamental as well as useful.

There is a decided contrast presented between the shoulders in the evening and those in the street. We are trying to make them negligible, even though they are not pronouncedly decorative, in evening frocks, and when we go in the streets we are covering them out of shape, with huge capes and collars that are growing in size.

The old time dropped shoulder seam with its baggy gathered leg-o-mutton portion eased into a long and well shaped cuff top just below the elbow line is the gallant among new sleeve styles.

Short evening gowns, without trains, will be worn quite as much at evening performances of the opera and the theater as those with trains. A train gives no dignity to a debutante. To be sure, the slender, sashlike ends may be flung over one arm if one dances or walks through the theater foyer. Such creations are better left to the stout woman, to whom fashion seems to have granted but this little boon.

Practical Winter Suit of Wool Velours

Designed by Franklin Simon & Co., New York.

THIS suit is a distinctly smart and becoming model of imported wool velours. No skirt that falls below the ankle may be considered chic, and this full skirt is an appropriate length, as it comes just to the top of the trim laced boot. The high collar of Hudson seal makes the suit very dressy as well as warm, but the collar may also be worn open if that style is preferred. The belt, which is a dominating feature, does not extend to the back, but simply fastens in front and is trimmed with a touch of seal. Plain bone buttons sewn through the center are used as fastenings. A small hat of a bright shade of velvet is worn with this suit. ANNA MAY.

Catarrh and Colds To Be Rid of Relieved

Is a great achievement. Most people would be well and happy were it not for catarrh. It is worth ten years of any one's life to learn how to get rid of catarrh.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Lesson X.—Fourth Quarter, For Dec. 5, 1915.

Text of the Lesson, 11 Chron. xxvi, 8-21—Memory Verse, 16—Golden Text, Prov. xxix, 23—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Our studies thus far have made us acquainted with many people, good and bad, some better than others and some worse than others, but none without failure, and no rest for our souls but in the God of Israel, who often appeared as a man and in the fullness of time became man for us, God manifest in the flesh. Our study today concerns a king whose reign was the longest of any, being fifty-two years, but he became proud and self-willed and died a leper. The study of these lives is helpful only as, by analogy or contrast, we learn to know the Living God, the God of Israel, for the whole Bible is intended to make us acquainted with God that we may love and trust and serve Him, and make Him known. Let us give a few minutes to Amaziah, the son of Joash and the father of Uzziah, whose record is in chapter xxv. He died right in the sight of the Lord in a measure and for a time (verse 2), but his record on the whole was bad. He turned away from following the Lord, bowed down to idols and burned incense to them, and when the Lord sent a prophet to reprove him he compelled him to forbear (verses 14-16, 27).

There was one incident in his life the record of which contains a saying which has often helped me and which I have often passed on to others. He hired 100,000 mighty men of valor out of Israel to help him in battle, and he paid them 100 talents of silver. A man of God was sent to him to say that he would not use these men, for the Lord was not with them and that God had power to help and to cast down. In reply to this question, "But what shall we do for the 100 talents paid to Israel?" he was told, "The Lord is able to give thee much more than this" (verses 6-9). We need to remember that God Himself has power to help, and if we make an unwise investment or lose anything we may find comfort in the fact that the Lord is able to give us much more. As to Uzziah, although his reign is the longest of any, his record is one of the shortest, for there seems to be but little to record. In some lives much is accomplished in a few years, while in others a long life is comparatively fruitless because God is not in it. It is said that he did right in the sight of the Lord, and as he longed to be like the Lord, God made him to prosper (xxvi, 4, 5). God helped him against the Philistines and Arabians; he built towers in Jerusalem and in the land, and he was a good husbandry. His name spread far abroad, and he was marvelously helped till he was strong (verses 7-10). His works seem to be of the Lord and nothing ending, and all the time he seemed to be growing more self-important, growing away from the Lord, seeing himself and those who praised him.

What a contrast to Saul of Tarsus, who from the day that he saw the Lord Jesus on the way to Damascus could see no one else unless he might draw them to Him, for whose excellency he counted all things but dust and in whom alone he gloried. The whole story of the daily life is either self or Christ. The true life is denying self and magnifying the Lord. What an utter failure man is apart from God, for when this man is strong, his heart was lifted up against God, and he transgressed against the Lord his God and even dared to burn incense in the holy place in the temple of the Lord, a thing which only the priests were authorized to do. The priests ordered him out of the temple, and then the Lord smote him in his forehead with leprosy, and he himself hastened to go out. He dwelt in a separate house and died a leper (xxvi, 16-21). In Gehazi the sin was covetousness and lying, but in this man it was pride, self conceit, self will. All transgression of sin, as in these and similar cases, points us onward to the man of sin, the greatest representative of the devil that ever was or will be, who will oppose and exalt himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped, showing himself that he is God (II Thess. ii, 3-12; Dan. xi, 36; Rev. xix). But he shall be overcome and cast into the lake of fire at the coming of the Lord (Rev. xx).

Many who have died lepers have gone home to heaven because redeemed with the precious blood of Christ, and we may meet Gehazi and Uzziah there, too, for the suggestion in their sins need not imply the loss of the soul, but, rather, the loss of service, as in I Cor. iii, 9-11. It is our privilege to walk with God all the way, to serve Him without turning aside and to receive a full reward at the coming of our Lord (II John viii; I John ii, 28). Isaiah seems to have begun his prophesy in the days of Uzziah, and he has much to say about loftiness being humbled, haughtiness lowed down and the Lord alone exalted.

When I think of Uzziah I feel led to pray that I may never be strong except in the Lord and always remember that His strength is made perfect in weakness. I also think of the record of Uzziah's death in Isa. vi, 1, and hear the prophet say what amounts to this, "I saw a king that never dies."

They Are Telling You.
In this issue of our paper and in the next several issues our merchants are telling you what they have for Christmas. Read what they say and watch our columns from now till Christmas.

Municipal Xmas Tree

About thirty representative citizens met at the court house Monday night and took the initial steps towards providing a Municipal Christmas tree. The organization is irrespective of church or other associations and is representative of the community spirit.

All the churches and lodges were represented and will co-operate in the scheme.

A large tree will be erected in the court house lawn and will be decorated and lighted. No presents will be dis-pensated but carols will be sung. The several churches and lodges will look after their own work according to their own plans.

This is a novel scheme and we trust that it may receive the hearty co-operation of all people irrespective of state, church or lodge.

A number of committees were appointed, a complete list of which will be given in our next issue. The names could not be obtained in time for this issue.

It is our intention to allow these committees as much space as may be necessary to give the fullest publicity to their work but the copy should be handed us before Monday, if possible to do so.

Held Under Bond

John Wilson, a young white man, apparently about twenty years of age, was tried by County Judge Shackelford Tuesday morning for chicken stealing and on the charge of petit larceny.
There were three charges of chicken stealing lodged against Wilson. One case was dismissed, and he was held to the grand jury on the other two counts in the sum of $200. On the petit larceny charge—for stealing a buggy robe valued at $5—Wilson received a sentence of 60 days at hard labor. Wilson came here from Clark county, where, we understand, he was engaged in the same dastardly business. He came from Tennessee to Clark county, and so far as we could learn chicken stealing is his occupation. He is rather an attractively bright young man, but seems to have a mania for chickens.

Business Men's Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Business Men's Association of Madison County at the Court House in this city Friday night, December 3. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock, and all business men, professional men and farmers who are interested in the future welfare of Richmond and Madison county, are not only cordially invited but earnestly solicited to be present at this meeting. The time has arrived when the people of the city and county must arise from their lethargic slumbers and get in the van of progress.
We have the best town and county in the State, and we should endeavor to make it better by a united and harmonious action on the part of our people. So let every person who can possibly make arrangements to be on hand Friday night. Especially are the farmers invited to come out. Two prominent speakers, Hon. James McKee, of Woodford county, the champion hog raiser of the United States, and Hon. Bradley Wilson, of Lexington, will deliver addresses on "Co-operation." Both are fluent speakers, and they will tell you many things that will be invaluable in the years to come. Tell your friends, and come out yourself.

The Fur Season.

The fur season has opened in Richmond, and local merchants have already bought several hundred dollars worth.
The most of the furs purchased have been skunks, for which the price has been $2.50 for No. 1, and $1.75 for No. 2.
Minks have not been very plentiful,
and the prices range from $1.00 to $2.50.
Our dealers are all wide-awake and will pay as much for furs as any other buyer in the market. It will pay you to consult them before disposing of your furs.

Ashamed of Yourself, Eh?

Some people have been getting the Climax-Madisonian fifty-two times a year for one, two or three years and a few even longer than that, and haven't paid a cent for it. Now, Mr. Delinquent, are you not ashamed of yourself for imposing on us that way? We have a large number of subscribers who pay in advance, another large number who pay at the end of the year, and we have some, who from appearances, don't expect to pay at all. To which class do you belong? Come in and let's talk it over. We want our dollar. If

State Bank & Trust Company, of this city, was a guest of honor at the third annual banquet of Winchester Council
No. 542, United Commercial Travelers, and would tempt the gods, and the liancy all former events. Mr. Turley

in a flashlight picture of the brilliant

Runaway Accident

Saturday morning about 10 o'clock a horse attached to a coal wagon of A. J.
Willoughby & Son, became frightened and ran off. The animal was standing on South Collins street and the driver was not on the wagon at the time.
When the horse started to run, the driver tried to get hold of the lines, but failed. The horse dashed down
Collins street and when he reached East Main street he was going some.
At the intersection of Main and Collins streets two buggies, each containing a lady, were standing in front of the store of Mr. Mack Hamilton. The runaway horse dashed into these two buggies, badly damaging them and throwing the occupants out. Fortunately the ladies were not hurt, although badly frightened. Shortly Mr. Willoughby arrived on the scene and adjusted the damages.

Money For Farmers.

The Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouses
of this city will formally open for business Thursday, December 2. The managers of all these houses are men of the highest honor and integrity, and it will be money in the pockets of the farmers to sell their tobacco on the Richmond breaks this year. There will be buyers from the largest manufacturers in the country here and the prices paid for the weed will equal those of any other market. Not only will the farmer receive as good prices here as elsewhere, but the cost for selling on the local market will be much less than on other markets.
Our local warehousemen refused to go into the combine and raise the prices for selling from 15 cents to 25 cents a hundred. The Burley Tobacco Warehouse Association did make a raise of 10 cents
a hundred, but our local handlers "bucked" the game and will sell your tobacco at the same old price—15 cents a hundred floor charges, 2 per cent commission, and 3 of one per cent for insurance.
The Lexington warehouses are all in the combine, and many others. The Richmond warehouses are not in the combine and by selling on the local market thousands of dollars will go into the pockets of the farmers and growers that would otherwise go into the till of the combine. Bring your tobacco to Richmond where you will receive fair and courteous treatment. It means money in your pocket.

A very lovely meeting of the Cecilia
club was held on Wednesday afternoon
with Helen Bennett at her home on West Main. The programme, a most attractive
one, was on Dance Music and many beautiful numbers, both vocal and instrumental were given. Those taking part were:
Mesdames A. R. Denny, M. C. Kellogg,
J. Hale Dean, G. W. Pickels, S. J. Mc-
Gauhey, L. P. Evans and Misses Pickels
and Caperton. A delightful feature of the afternoon was the impromptu talk by Mrs.
Fletcher, who has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. Kellogg. This was along the line of dances used in England on May-day festivities during the reign of Henry VII and VIII. Mrs. Fletcher is a musician
and a most interesting speaker.

Miss Elizabeth Blanton entertained on Friday evening with a charming dance for her visitors of the week-end, Misses Parker Durham, of Danville, and Artie Bond,
of Elizabethtown, Messrs. Bracken Tate,
of Danville, and Sidney Arbery, of Paris.
The house was lovely with flowers and lights and the young people enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess to the fullest. At the midnight hour a salad course was served.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Laura Blanton was hostess of an Alhambra party for the guests of Miss Elizabeth Blanton. Following the pictures, the party repaired to the home on Third street where they were beautifully entertained.

Misses Elsie Buchanan and Tommie
Cole Covington gave quite a pretty bridge
party on Thursday afternoon in compliment to Miss Watham, of Louisville.

Mrs. Z. T. Rice entertained with a

Do You Read Labels?

Domestic science teachers and food authorities are urging the housewife to carefully read the labels on all food articles.

The laws of most States compel food manufacturers to print the ingredients of their products on the label, and this enables consumers to distinguish healthful foods from those which may be deleterious.

High-grade baking powders are made of pure cream of tartar, derived from grapes. Royal Baking Powder is a type of the highest grade. It is healthful beyond a doubt and the safest and best to use.

The low-grade baking powders are made from alum, a mineral acid salt, or phosphate of lime.

Consumers can learn the character of the baking powder by referring to the label, which must state whether the contents include cream of tartar, alum or phosphate.

It was the writer's pleasure to attend
Brother B. F. Petty's birthday dinner, Saturday, November 20, which was about the biggest thing of the kind I have ever seen. Brother Petty resides on Big Hill Ave., in this city and has charge of country churches near here.
His time is divided equally between Tates Creek and Waco churches, splendid fields. In addition to this he gives surplus time to Vine Fork and Forest churches. The attendances from these churches speak for itself. The following were in attendance: Rev. J. R. Rey-

Miss Hazel House, Mrs. S. O. D. Waz-
ers, Mrs. H. C. Brewer, Miss Mary Em-

J. R. Reynolds, Pastor.

A very lovely meeting of the Cecilia
club was held on Wednesday afternoon
with Helen Bennett at her home on West Main. The programme, a most attractive
one, was on Dance Music and many beautiful numbers, both vocal and instrumental
were given. Those taking part were:
Mesdames A. R. Denny, M. C. Kellogg,
J. Hale Dean, G. W. Pickels, S. J. Mc-
Gauhey, L. P. Evans and Misses Pickels
and Caperton. A delightful feature of the afternoon was the impromptu talk by Mrs.
Fletcher, who has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. Kellogg. This was along the line of dances used in England on May-
day festivities during the reign of Henry
VII and VIII. Mrs. Fletcher is a musician
and a most interesting speaker.

Miss Elizabeth Blanton entertained on Friday evening with a charming dance for
her visitors of the week-end, Misses Parker Durham, of Danville, and Artie Bond,
of Elizabethtown, Messrs. Bracken Tate,
of Danville, and Sidney Arbery, of Paris.
The house was lovely with flowers and
lights and the young people enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess to the fullest. At the midnight hour a salad course was served.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Laura Blan-
ton was hostess of an Alhambra party for
the guests of Miss Elizabeth Blanton. Following the pictures, the party repaired to
the home on Third street where they were beautifully entertained.

Misses Elsie Buchanan and Tommie
Cole Covington gave quite a pretty bridge
party on Thursday afternoon in compliment to Miss Watham, of Louisville.

OLD AND NEW WAY TO TREAT CATARRH

Breathing a Germ Killing Air Endorsed
By Actual Results.

The discovery of Hyomei has wrought a wonderful change in the treatment of catarrh.

Prior to three years ago the medical profession employed in the cure of this disease were drugs, sprays, lotions, etc. In some instances they benefited, but the improvement was not lasting.

With Hyomei you take into the air passages of your throat and head a balsamic air that goes into the minutest cells, and should effectively kill all germs and microbes of catarrh. Its purpose is to enter in the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood, and restore health to the whole system.

Many astonishing testimonials have been received from those who have been helped by Hyomei.

A complete outfit is inexpensive and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment.

Perhaps the strongest evidence that can be given to doubters, is the fact that B. L. Middleton has so much faith in Hyomei that he sells every package under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. 48 24

SEEING LIFE with JOHN HENRY by George V. Hobart

John Henry Gets a Present

SAY! did you ever dream you were going to get a wonderful Christmas gift from a rich relation and wake up in the flesh?

Friend wife and I are not mercenary, but we did have a hunch that Uncle Peter would slip us an onyx clock with which we could hide the knotholes in our phoney mantelpiece, or an amethyst ash tray which we could use as a bathtub for the canary, or nothing doing!

It was a sad blow to us that Christmas morning, because the old boy is upholstered with coin. He owns all the eagles on the gold pieces. He has pet names for them and keeps them cooped up like a flock of chickens.

And all he sent us was a book worth sixty cents net, written by a pretzel pen pusher named Helfenhelfen.

I wanted to throw it out the window at a taxi driver engaged in exercising his engine for the benefit of those in the neighborhood who were sleeping late on Christmas morning, but Peaches had her shoes and stockings off and was wading through the first chapter.

The book, she informed me, was a series of essays on reincarnation.

Can you tie that for a Christmas present from a man to whom money comes crying like a child and begs to be put to sleep in his safety-deposit vaults?

Reincarnation is a long, loose-looking word, and to a perfect stranger it has a slightly suspicious sound, but its bark is worse than its bite.

After reading about half a gallon of Helfenhelfen's theories, Peaches began to bite her nails and make faces like a highbrow.

"The idea of a person having been somebody else in a previous existence is interesting, isn't it, John?" she gurgled. "I wonder who I was?"

"You appeared first as the Queen of Sheba," I told her, "and after chasing King Solomon up a yucca tree you disappeared for several centuries and then you slipped into history's moving pictures as Cleopatra, and I've a doggone good mind to divorce you for the way you carried on with Marc Antony."

"Oh, tush!" giggled Peaches. "Have some sense. Who do you think Hep Hardy was?"

"Hep!" I said, "why Hep originally was a katydid or a tree toad, probably both. Later on he appeared as a dancing dervish and made weekly pilgrimages to Mecca to fill himself and the goatskin with grape. Then he dropped out for several hundred years to get a new set of watertight compartments and finally reappeared as Joe Morgan in 'Ten Nights in a Bar-room' and he's been playing that ever since."

"I don't see why you can't take this seriously," she pouted. "Herr Helfenhelfen's book is very wonderful."

"So is a Swiss cheese sandwich," I ventured. "Did you ever stop to think how wonderful those holes are in a

"And when will that be?" inquired Wellington, laughing loudly.

"In the far, far future," replied the Little Corporal. "You will then be one of the Common People."

"And what will you be?" Wellington asked.

"I shall be spirit of the High Cost of Living and I shall gnaw at your pocketbook until your appetite becomes a burden unbearable. Bon soir, mes enfants, du spitzbuben!"

Then the little corporal called a cab and left Wellington flat on the battle-field.

When I came back from the kitchen I found Peaches in the front room hugging Helfenhelfen to her heart and laughing her yellow head off.

"Like it?" I asked, swelling up with the pride of authorship.

"Look! she spluttered between laughs. 'Look, John! Isn't Uncle Peter a dear old fox! He wanted us to read this book and find the real Christmas present. Look here on page 173 he has neatly attached a thin little check for a thousand dollars! Isn't he a darling?'"

"It's worth that to read 173 pages of Helfenhelfen," I squawked, to cover my confusion.

Some Uncle, that old boy, and I take back anything I may have said about

"Not if I see you first!" said David. "I will take good care that you don't" chuckled the expiring giant.

"How?" was David's interrogation. "It will be in the far, far future," said the giant. "You will then be one of the Common People walking in the streets."

"And you?" David asked. "I will be a chauffeur on a smoke wagon, and what I will do to you will be a pitiful shame," responded the giant.

Then with a bitter laugh the triumphant Goliath turned and pushed his mortal coil off the shuffle-board.

Second Essay.

The ghost of Julius Caesar looked threateningly at Brutus, the Stabbiest. Brutus sneered.

"You," he said, "to the mines!" Not one of Caesar's muscles quivered.

Brutus used a short, sharp laugh. "You," he said, "on your way!" Caesar never batted an eyelash.

Brutus pointed to the rear. "Go way back," he said, "and use your laziness."

Caesar pulled his toga up over his cold shoulder.

Brutus laughed again, and it was the saucy, triumphant laugh of the man who dodges in front of a woman and grabs a seat on the elevated railroad.

"The next time we meet you will not do me as you did me at the base of Pompey's statue," said the ghost of Caesar, speaking for the first time since we began this essay.

"We will not meet again because I refuse to associate with you," said Brutus.

Caesar smiled, but it was without mirth, and as cold as the notice of suspension on the door of a bank.

"Yes, we will meet again," said Caesar.

"Where?" said Brutus.

"In the far, far future," said the ghost of Caesar shriekingly.

When he was born into the world again by that time, and in your new personality you will be one of the Common People, and you will burn gas."

"And you?" inquired Brutus.

"I will be the spirit which puts the wheels in the gas meter, and may heaven have mercy on your pocketbook!" shrieked the ghost of Caesar.

Brutus took a fit, and used it for

How often it is that the younger of two children in a family is at a disadvantage, in the matter of what is done for him, the clothes which he wears and the attention which he receives generally. It is sometimes pathetic, although occurring not so much from any real difference in the feelings of the parents for the two as from thoughtlessness and the natural order of things. The handing down of clothes from older to younger, for example, is almost necessary in many a family, but it is a hardship for the younger one, nevertheless.

One family once had two girls in exactly this situation, the younger being just so much behind her sister in growth and development that it came perfectly natural that the elder's dresses should fall to her lot in the course of time. And so it happened that all the new things were the elder's and the younger always had them made over for herself.

One day the elder was told by her mother to go downtown and select some material which she liked for her graduation dress and bring it home for approval. Full of glee, the girl started to go, when the younger spoke at all seriousness: "Don't you think I ought to go with her, mamma?" said she, "to see if I like the other side?"

"It set the mother to thinking, and after that the younger got some new things of her very own.—Rochester N. H. Courier.

How Shoe Peg Was Invented.

To a Massachusetts man, Joseph Walker, is due the credit of inventing the shoe peg. Previous to the year 1818 its use had not been known.

Walker gave a new start to the manufacture of boots and shoes.

Shortly after the introduction of this invention some unscrupulous parties are said to have tried to swindle the unsuspecting by endeavoring to sell shoe pegs as a new kind of coat.

Up to 1818 boots and shoes had been sewed, and the peg, made first by hand, came in to revolutionize the trade. It was, however, the custom of shoemakers who lived away from the manufacturing centers to make their own pegs by hand even as late as 1880, but the machine-manufactured peg has now superseded them.

Old Traveling Man Dead.

Mr. Charles Lewis Holmes, better known as "Leg," one of the oldest traveling men in the State, died last Tuesday night of last week at Harrodsburg of acute indigestion.

Deceased was 71 years of age and had been a "knight of the grip" for 41 years.

For several years he was connected with the firm of Brinkley & Grubbs, of Louisville, and later assisted in organizing the Louisville Tin & Stove Company, became its vice-president and remained with the firm 28 years.

He was a Confederate veteran, Mason and churchman and had numerous friends throughout the State. He not only knew his customers, but was widely acquainted in all sections. He was well known in this city, where he visited monthly for more than thirty years. Funeral services were held at his home in Louisville Friday afternoon. The members of his firm acted as pallbearers.

Many Hopes Blasted.

Postmaster General Burleson has laid down a rule for the construction of postoffice buildings which will blast the hopes of citizens in many towns and suspend plans for the erection of buildings for some time to come.

Under his ruling it will be impossible to carry out building plans. When the Treasury Department calls upon him for information about the needs of the service in the particular town for which the purchase of a site has been authorized, this rule is cited.

"In this connection I desire to invite your attention to this department's view that government owned quarters should not be provided for postoffice purposes exclusively unless the rental paid by the government is as much as $1,000 a year, and then only when the gross postoffice receipts amount to as much as $15,000 per annum or the population to as much as 5,000."

Under this ruling the following Kentucky cities and towns have both deficiency of population and receipts: Harrodsburg, deficiency in both population

HINTS FOR MAKING "COMFY" PILLOWS

Delightful Gifts Ranging From Balsam to Saddlebags.

ANY one farsighted enough to have gathered balsam buds the past summer can make her friends delightful Christmas presents by filling little cheesecloth bags with these fragrant thoughts and slipping them into embroidered covers of linen or silk. Our illustration also suggests an interesting idea for a workbasket. The pretty cretonne pattern of rose is bound with braid. The cretonne cushion is attached to the side of the basket so it can never be lost.

Sofa pillows of all kinds are the rage, as we know. Those of the art linens, white linen with the new solid flower embroidery; those of denims, with faces to be outlined coarsely upon them; the old fashioned cross stitch patterns and the pillows of art material are as pretty as the fourteen dollar beauties and far more acceptable to the ordinary person. None of them costs very much, and those of linen or denims may be bought by the dozen and present maker. Feather pillows make delightful and useful cushions for sitting room and library lounges if prettily covered with saddlebags.

A Christmas gift that is growing as popular here as in England is that of a plum pudding. It may be made at home and goes to its destination daintily wrapped, though still in its mold, and tied with ribbons and bolly. In England about 250 tons of plum puddings, averaging seven pounds each, are sent out each year. According to an old tradition, plum pudding should be served at least "three days old" before its eating. To make, put into a big bowl one cupful each of finely chopped suet, seeded raisins, cleaned currants and granulated sugar. Three cupfuls of soft breadcrumbs and one each of shredded citron and orange peel. Add four eggs one by one, each being mixed thoroughly with the other ingredients before the next one is added.

Next to follow are half a cupful of milk, one-quarter cupful of brandy (if there is no objection to its use), one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of mixed nutmeg, clove and allspice and the grated yellow rind of one lemon.

Mix thoroughly, using the hands; then fill into a large buttered mold, leaving scarcely any room for it to swell. Tie a thickly greased and flour cloth or a piece of old paper over the top and tie on the cover as tight as possible. Put into a steamer or arrange some corn so that it may be suspended from the inside of the cover of the kettle in which it is boiled. The boiling water should reach up nearly to the height of the bowl. Boil seven hours steadily, taking care that no water boils into it and that the water is boiling when the pudding goes in and is never allowed to stop. On Christmas day it can be reheated in the mold in which it was made. When sending to the table slice a sprig of holly on the top, put a border of hanged nuts almonds around the edge and cover the pudding a quarter cupful of brandy or rum to be set on fire just as it enters the dining room.

Plum Pudding Sauce.—Cook together a cupful of sugar and a quarter cupful of water until the sugar spins a thread. Beat the yolks of three eggs until lemon colored and thick and pour the hot syrup over them, beating all the time. Add a cupful of cream, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and two tablespoonfuls of brandy (if not objectionable); strain and serve immediately.

Plum Pudding Sauce.—Cook together a cupful of sugar and a quarter cupful of water until the sugar spins a thread. Beat the yolks of three eggs until lemon colored and thick and pour the hot syrup over them, beating all the time. Add a cupful of cream, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and two tablespoonfuls of brandy (if not objectionable); strain and serve immediately.

English Custom That Is Becoming Popular in America.

A Christmas gift that is growing as popular here as in England is that of a plum pudding. It may be made at home and goes to its destination daintily wrapped, though still in its mold, and tied with ribbons and bolly. In England about 250 tons of plum puddings, averaging seven pounds each, are sent out each year. According to an old tradition, plum pudding should be served at least "three days old" before its eating. To make, put into a big bowl one cupful each of finely chopped suet, seeded raisins, cleaned currants and granulated sugar. Three cupfuls of soft breadcrumbs and one each of shredded citron and orange peel. Add four eggs one by one, each being mixed thoroughly with the other ingredients before the next one is added.

Next to follow are half a cupful of milk, one-quarter cupful of brandy (if there is no objection to its use), one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of mixed nutmeg, clove and allspice and the grated yellow rind of one lemon.

Mix thoroughly, using the hands; then fill into a large buttered mold, leaving scarcely any room for it to swell. Tie a thickly greased and flour cloth or a piece of old paper over the top and tie on the cover as tight as possible. Put into a steamer or arrange some corn so that it may be suspended from the inside of the cover of the kettle in which it is boiled. The boiling water should reach up nearly to the height of the bowl. Boil seven hours steadily, taking care that no water boils into it and that the water is boiling when the pudding goes in and is never allowed to stop. On Christmas day it can be reheated in the mold in which it was made. When sending to the table slice a sprig of holly on the top, put a border of hanged nuts almonds around the edge and cover the pudding a quarter cupful of brandy or rum to be set on fire just as it enters the dining room.

STATEWIDE PROHIBITION.

When the framers of the last constitution inserted a clause therein permitting counties, cities and precincts to vote on the question of the sale of liquor in their local boundaries, they did not by any means surrender the power of the state to repeal the entire license laws for the state. In granting the power to a locality to suspend the operation of the general license laws in that particular district or locality, they did not deprive the state of the power to enact a statewide prohibition law. Statewide prohibition is nothing more than a withdrawal by the State of the laws which now permit liquor licenses to be granted in such localities as have not adopted local option laws. In order to secure prohibition for the entire State it is only necessary to repeal the license laws. No person can sell liquor without a license and if the power to grant a license is taken from the county courts of the state, then statewide prohibition is in full force and effect. There is no use of parleying about the matter, and if the people want statewide prohibition they can have it at once. Let a bill be introduced for this purpose and let it pass with an emergency clause and you will see what will happen. Not a school can open its doors and not a man can sell lawfully. Why not pass this law and at the same time pass a law allowing the people to vote on the question of amending the constitution if indeed it should be determined by the courts (contrary to our expectations) that such a course must be pursued? No time will be lost in that way. Then the people will have a square deal both by their representatives and at the polls. Can any method be fairer?

We submit this to the legal fraternity for their consideration.

USING THE MAILS FOR FRAUD

The Postoffice department can stop much of the illegal traffic in liquor in a jiffy if it would only do so. Much of the liquor brought into local option territory is ordered by mail and is to be used in violation of law. The mails can not be used for fraudulent purposes or in violation of law and one who orders liquors by mail for an improper use is guilty of using the mails for a fraudulent purpose. Of course liquors can not be shipped by mail. But wrongful orders for the stuff are sent in every day and houses furnishing the liquor on these fraudulent orders, come under the ban of using the mails for a fraudulent purpose as well as those who use them. Let the government inspectors look after this part of the mail order houses and they can stop a very large part of the illegal sale of liquor in local territory.

HAMLETT'S DEFEAT.

In all probability, Barksdale Hamlett has been defeated. If he should not be allowed to gain the office by any subterfuge. The people are not in a humor just now to allow tampering with the vote.

This leads us to the belief that the election machinery is too complicated and that it should be simplified in some way. One way of remedying any defects, is to make more precincts and have shorter hours for the election. Under the present system, the election officers are required to be at work at 6 o'clock in the night time and in the country precincts where they have no proper lighting systems, many errors are committed. Also many frauds can be perpetrated where there is an inclination to do so. A few votes stolen in a precinct or a few lost by error, may cause

George Beban In "An Alien" Made Abie Cry

By ABIE THE AGENT

The New York Journal, Jan. 1, 1915.
There are two kinds of tears, Minsk, and all you know is the horse reddish kind. But the wet tear, that you wipe with the palm of your thumb and then give a little sniffs, you don't know nothing—how can you?

You even told me yesterday that the saddest thing that ever came forward in your life is when you was out of a job and you final got on the jury, two dollars a day. Soon as you got sworn in, the prisoner confessed out and everybody got dismissed.

So how can you be touched? Your heart is as exactly as "Hart" means in our private national language. But I don't care how hard dried up your heart is Minsk, I'll get it for you a little bit softened. Go, you know, till you come to Broadway nearly by Forty-fifth street and on the west side from the street you'll see a sign hanging out what says "Mr. George Beban, in An Alien."

Soon like you see the sign you know that's the Astor Theater, and that's where I want you to go to see it something—I see it, and if I had a gifted talent like George Beban I would set it right here for you in this cigar store, and I can't set unless I hollow, but my, the Astor Theater, it's the silent drama—you know, motion pictures.

I'm going to describe to you the idea from the show. Beautiful things I keep to myself. Minsk, it is one of the sweetest little story tales what I ever seen on the screen. It is "father love" for a motherless child wanted a mother and the struggle fight of that father to bring up in happiness his child, Rosina, because they were each alone for each other.

When he gave her a pull up in his arms and put his one hand on the back of her curly head that was snuggled in his chest, every time what he done that, I was weak. Who could be strong when it's, by him his only child, later taken from him, crushed down by the wheels of a careless driver of a automobile? I ask you Minsk, does "father love" here I'm getting all excited and three rounds of checks is in front of me. You go to see George Beban and if you don't save over him I'll pay for three rounds of celery tones deliberately!

By ABIE THE AGENT.
The vehicle in which George Beban is to appear at the Alhambra Theater, Tuesday, will be his own photo-dramatization of "The Sign of the Rose," under the title of "An Alien." It is an adaptation that "makes dimples to catch the tears," made under the direction of Thomas H. Ince. adv.

"I was wondering what would happen to the silent vote when women got into politics," replied Mr. Gabb.

Our Own Popul Songs.

A working girl who sought a job when business was real slack. Tried to catch a horse at the old Lottola track. She liked the work, and she was always certain of her pay. For her employer was a sport who paid her by the day. Said he, "You're an apprentice, but I'll let you have a mount. And you can ride Star Shooter, he's a colt of some account. He's entered in a race next week, and he'll win sure as fate. But you must cut out beer and train me, you can make the weight."

The great day came, and when the nags paraded to the post. The girl had made the weight, but she was feeling like a ghost. The barrier went up and then Star Shooter took the lead. He ran like he was scared to death and showed a world of speed. He ran so fast that he was soon in front by a half mile. And when they hit the stretch the girl looked back with a glad smile. The great crowd yelled, "Come on, you Star! Come on! The rest are jokes!" And then the girl remembered that she must face all them folks. She felt round for her powder rag and powdered up her nose. And gazed into her mirror as she sat in sweet repose. And, as she primped, the other horses stalled up and passed. And when she'd finished dolling up, poor Star was rolling last. The owner said: "You're freed, you dumb. To win you didn't try!" And though his lungs were in her throat, the brave girl did reply:

Chorus: "I may be riding horses, but I'm human just the same! And just because your old nag lost, why should I take the blame?" And no guy ain't no gent, though he wears diamonds on his clothes, Who'd fire a working girl because she powdered up her nose."

DEATHS

The remains of Mr. George Shepherd were brought here from Cincinnati last Wednesday night and taken to the home of his brother, Mr. Chas. Shepherd, on Broadway. The burial took place in the Richmond Cemetery, Thursday morning, with brief funeral services at the grave. Mr. Shepherd was about 45 years of age and was born and reared in Madison county, and has many friends throughout the county, who are grieved to hear of his sudden death, which was due to blood poisoning, caused by the extraction of a tooth. Deceased spent many years of his life at Kirksville, where he was united in marriage to Miss Lelia Wil, who with seven children survive, together with his parents and three brothers. The deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved family by a wide circle of friends.

Mr. A. M. Scribner, of Station Camp, Estill county, died at his residence Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the infirmities of old age. He was buried at the family burying ground Monday afternoon.

Mr. Scribner was an honorable man and once held the office of Sheriff of Estill county, which office he filled with credit.

He leaves several children, among them Mrs. Wm. Wagers and Harry Scribner, of this city, and Mrs. Wagers attended the funeral which was held under the auspices of the Masonic lodge.

A dark cloud of sorrow gathered over this community Sunday evening when it became known that Mrs. J. S. Pullen, wife of Prof. J. S. Pullen, manager of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School farm, had died suddenly at her home near this city. Mrs. Pullen was apparently in her usual health and in the afternoon went to the bath room of her home. Shortly afterward, about 3 o'clock, her lifeless body was found on the bath room floor. When found, she had probably been dead about fifteen minutes, her death being due to heart failure. Deceased was a young woman of unusual brilliancy and had many friends, who were moved to tears when they learned of her demise. She is survived by her husband, three small children, one of them a babe four months old. To them the deepest sympathy of the entire community is extended. Brief funeral services were conducted at the home Monday morning by Rev. M. S. Clark, pastor of the M. E. Church South, of which denomination she was a devoted member. The remains were then conveyed to the L. & N. depot and taken to Hickman County, Tennessee, her old home, for burial, her husband, Prof. Pullen, and Secretary J. P. Culberson, of the Normal School, accompanied them.

CARD OF THANKS

While our hearts are filled with sadness yet we are not unmindful of the sympathy and kindness of our relatives, friends and neighbors in our recent bereavement in the death of our dearly beloved daughter and sister, Miss Nina Williams, who passed out of life, November 18, 1915.

Especially do we wish to thank Drs. Gibson for their visiting and faithful services; Rev. J. R. Reynolds for his comforting words; music rendered by Misses Amy Parrish and Poveia Barnes, Mrs. Jennie Parrish, Prof. Stot, and Mr. Rufus Blakemore for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral, and all the donors of the beautiful floral tributes.

From a bereaved mother, father and sisters and brother.

Jephtha Chenault III

While attending the meeting of the National Fox Hunters' Association at Columbia, Tenn. last week, Mr. Jephtha Chenault, of this city, became violently ill. He was afflicted apparently with acute indigestion or heart failure, and as soon as he was able, he proceeded homeward. However, he had similar attacks in Knoxville, Louisville and Lexington. On reaching the latter place, after rallying he was placed in an automobile and brought to the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. Rutledge, near White Hall, where he is now confined and resting easily. The many friends of this popular young man are grieved to learn of his illness and hope for his speedy recovery.

SPEEDWELL

Messrs. Earl Todd and Orville Comer who are in school at Berea spent Sunday with home folks. Mr. J. W. Moberley, the Corn Cracker of Brassfield, entertained a party of friends Sunday at lunch. W. D. Loedson, the bustling merchant of Frogtown, has a nice dwelling under construction, which will soon be ready for use. Miss Emma need seek no further for suitable company in the high school at Richmond, is spending a few days at home. Thanksgiving passed off very quietly in this section. There was a noticeable shortage in the number of big spreads, owing perhaps to the fancy prices paid for turkeys which took them east. There was a box supper at Speedwell School on Thursday evening. The children preceded it by a good entertainment. Mrs. A. H. Hamilton and others gave nice talks on topics assigned to the programme for Kentucky Day. George Todd and John Rice are considering a trip to their Uncle John D. to see if they cannot get a cut on the price of gasoline. Mrs. George Bishop, who had the misfortune to fall several days ago and fracture her right arm, is getting along nicely. Mrs. Chas. B. Foley, who has been quite ill for some time is able to be out again. Mrs. Sam Adams who has been of the sick list the past few days is very much improved. Mrs. J. M. Hendon is visiting relatives and friends in Lexington this week.

18 To 86.

One of the most remarkable events in the history of the Sunday schools of Madison county, occurred at the First Christian church in this city Sunday morning. For some weeks there has been going on a contest in Mr. Turley's Bible Class, the "Blues" and "Reds" soliciting for their respective colors. On Sunday morning the contest was a tie, there being 95 wearing blue buttons and 93 the red, or a grand total of 188 in the class. It was a grand and inspiring sight. There were men in all walks of life, and they ranged in age from 18 to 80 years. Hon. Dwight L. Pendleton, of Winchester, who is recognized as the ablest and foremost Sunday School worker in the State, had charge of the class and was given close and courteous attention throughout. At the conclusion of the lesson Mr. Pendleton made a short address to the class and endeavored to impress the members with the duties devolving upon every individual present. At the conclusion of his remarks he was roundly applauded. Mr. R. E. Turley went to Winchester and taught Mr. Pendleton's big class in that city where he was given a hearty greeting. Mr. Turley is a matchless teacher, and we have had some flattering reports of his visit to our neighboring city.

Elks Memorial Services

In accordance with their usual custom, Richmond Lodge, No. 581, B. P. O. Elks, will hold their annual memorial services on Sunday, December 5, at the First Christian church at 2:30 o'clock. Hon. Dwight L. Pendleton, of Winchester, will deliver the Memorial Address. Those who know him can testify that we may expect an able address—one in keeping with the spirit of the occasion. Judge W. R. Shackelford, of the local lodge, will deliver an eulogy to "Our Departed Brothers." All members of the order are requested to meet at the Lodge room Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and all friends of the order are cordially invited to attend the services at the church at 2:30.

ART OF GIVING CHRISTMAS MONEY

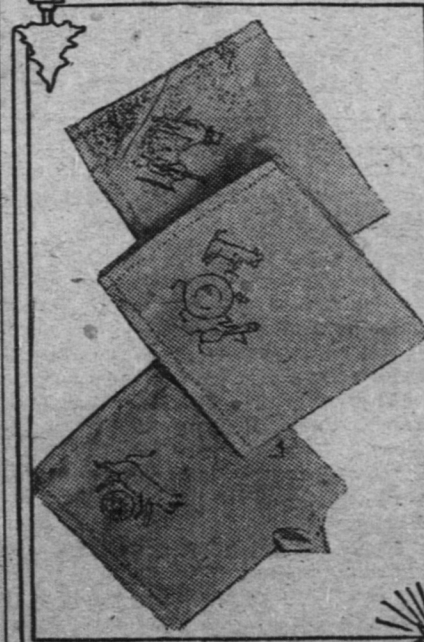

With advancing years and a constantly widening family circle Christmas gift giving becomes more and more complex and Christmas shopping more of a tax. Even the least practical great-aunts and the most affectionate and sentimental grandmothers are beginning to realize that Christmas gift giving is so entirely satisfactory for both giver and recipient as to bestow upon our young folks the "where-withal" to gratify a heart's desire.

When the desired sum is divided into the several amounts $1 but remains to distribute these presents. Just here is where we can add the dainty or jocular personal touch.

The woman who bakes her own supply of Christmas cookies or gingerbread need seek no further for suitable coin conveyers. Let her cut her dough into bird or butterfly shapes and ornament it with absolutely new, bright quarters, dimes and half dollars. An owl with $2.50 gold pieces for eyes, a butterfly bearing three dimes on each upper, two quarters on each lower wing; a peacock with his gorgeous tail feathers outlined in brand new dimes will be particularly splendid. Bringing the cake and coin in direct contact may be avoided by slipping a small round of waxed paper in between; if laid in position just before the gingerbread is put into the oven the gold and silver pieces will "bake in" beautifully. Long, shiny pine cones make excellent coin holders. Such a cone stuck firmly on end in a sand filled flowerpot and surrounded with Christmas greens, each half open scale supporting a gold or silver coin, is very attractive. When the presents are distributed direct from the tree such cones—though suspended upside down—may be made to hold the different coins firmly in place by immersing them (stood on end) for six or eight hours in a cupful of water. In drying the scales will close tightly over the coins.

Unique Dollies.

"Hey diddle diddle, the cat and the diddle," and all the rest of the old nursery rhymes are done in outline on the backs of the dolls in a unique set of dollies. These are pictured in the illustration shown here. They could be done in any color to match the little one's room. Things like these dollies help to give the child an intimate sense of possession, and the child has her little fingers and toes upon her own little table and have her dollies' or guests.
